the NEW Electric Range makes
Vigorous, happy people because essential vitamins are sealed in their food

YOUR physician will tell you that old-fashioned cooking methods waste much of the health-giving elements in your diet. Electric cookery seals in the nourishing juices, so that food retains fully its delicious original flavor. It preserves the necessary vitamins and vital mineral salts which the body demands for proper development.

Another and equally important benefit is due to the fact that an electric range consumes no oxygen. The air in your kitchen is always pure. No odors come from the electric range as from many types of cook stoves.

The result is pure air, most beneficial to the health of you and your family.

Only the odor of cooking is found in the kitchen equipped with a modern electric range.

Why not learn more about Electric Cookery and its many advantages over any other means of cooking? Without obligation, just 'phone or stop at the display rooms of any merchant selling electric ranges. See him today.

Legal Beer In Virginia Seen By Labor Day

To Vote on Repeal Convention October 3 and Select Delegates

Virginia will more than likely have legal beer by Monday, September 4, Labor Day. The final measures necessary for 3.2 beer have been passed and the machinery set up to issue licenses. However, no licenses will be issued before Monday, September 4. That day is a holiday, but most commissioners of revenue will violate the holiday to collect beer licenses. Wholesalers have supplies on hand to supply retailers as soon as licenses are obtained.

In Lynchburg this week virtually every soda fountain had beer on tap. Although technically illegal, no effort seemed to be made to stop sale.

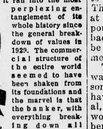
In the meantime, a set-up is being prepared for the state vote to select delegates to a repeal convention. The vote will be held October 3. Two slates of delegates will be voted on, one a wet slate and the other a dry. Thirty delegates will be named and these delegates will comprise the convention that will vote on repeal.

The legislature is now considering a bill to abolish prohibition fees to officers. In the vote on this measure yesterday in the senate, Senator S. L. Ferguson, of Appomattox, opposed the bill on the ground that to abolish the fees before the amendment is repealed and new state prohibition laws are enacted, will make for a period of flagrant law vioalation, and that the present law should be enforced right up to the hour that new laws take their place.

WHAT BANKING WENT THROUGH

By JOHN H. PUELICHER
American Bankers Association

BANKING in its long career has been compelled to withstand many serious shocks, but it ran into the most perplexing entanglement of its whole history since the general breakdown of values in 1929. The commercial structure of the entire world seemed to have been shaken from its foundations and the marvel is that the banker, with everything breaking down around him, was able to come through as he has.



J. H. PUELICHER

General business failures, agricultural stagnation, income losses, capital losses, inabilities to meet debts and therefore inabilities of bankers to pay their depositors when loans were not paid, were the reasons, in most instances, for the bank failures.

No profession, no department of life is without its weaker elements, but had proper consideration been given to the relatively few instances in banking, had exaggerated and startling headlines been kept in true proportion, had banking not been used as a target for political self-seeking and with vote-seeking motives, had unfounded rumors not been spread the people's confidence might have been retained and far less serious would have been their financial losses, for many bank failures were caused that need not have happened.

There were factors in our banking experience which every earnest banker deplored—factors which many had worked years to eliminate, which it was fearfully recognized would aggravate any difficult days which might arise. One of the worst of these was the political regulation which guaranteed many banks that should never have been chartered.

That there have been incompetence and dishonesty in banking is admitted. That the instances that did occur were used grossly to increase fear in the public mind, we affirm. We shall continue to strive for higher attainments in our profession and strive for laws that require competence and ability in management. That we cannot legislate honesty and unselfishness into either a banker or a borrower must be conceded, but dishonesty, wherever found, should be punished. It is as true in banking as elsewhere that no matter how good the law, dishonest and incompetent men can make it ineffective. Good laws are essential. We must strive for ever better ones, but their enforcement will come only as the public recognizes that it is a matter not of laws or codes alone but of the men who administer them.

"NRA" Consumer Drive Is On Here

A "NRA" consumer drive has been organized in this county and a meeting of the ladies' division of same will be held tonight at the court house at 7:30. Miss Avis Brown has been named chairman for the women's organization. This is part of the nation-wide appeal to the general public to line up with the patriotic service made possible as an NRA consumer.

To Put Grading Tax On Dark-leaf Tobacco

Hope Will Boost Prices and Equality Among Tobacco Growers

With former congressman Joel W. Flood, of Appomattox, John R. Hutcheson, of V. P. I., and officials of the Dark-Fired Tobacco Growers Association as its proponents, a bill for the compulsory grading of dark tobacco was passed yesterday by the Virginia house of delegates. The vote on the bill was 79 to 2.

The measure may be applied to bright tobacco too, later. The bill levies a tax, estimated at five cents per hundred pounds, for grading dark tobacco. The amount of tax will be determined by the department of agriculture.

The bill was opposed by warehousemen. Mott Robertson, of Lynchburg, sought to have the grading made optional, claiming that the farmers would not receive sufficient benefit from it to warrant it being made compulsory.

Berkley Adams, delegate from Charlotte, pointed out that Maryland had a similar compulsory grading law. Otis Tucker, of Drakes Branch, at this hearing, endorsed the plan for the optional clauses, as did Joel Watkins, of Farmville.

Mr. Hutcheson, of V. P. I., told the delegates that grading would bring some increase in tobacco prices. He said it would cut down inequalities between individuals. In other words would tend to eliminate the evil known as "pin-hooking," where on occasion farmers with identical crops often-times receive different prices for their crop.

It was further stated that grading would be necessary for a processing tax, if one were levied. The government may place a processing tax on this year's crop, but no information regarding same has yet been received. Mr. Hutcheson condemned the present selling system for tobacco, saying that it made for too much speculation and inequality. Others said that there was enough money in tobacco for the farmer, buyer and manufacturer all to profit, but that under the old system of selling the farmer has been bankrupt and that the financial resources of his communities had been drained in an effort to tide him over. It was hoped that a grading system would be a step in the direction of better and more equal prices for the farmer.

Change Dates For Fair At Appomattox

Changed to Wee Later Due to Crops and Schedule of Attractions

The dates for the twenty-first annual Appomattox Fair have been changed and made a week later from the time originally announced. The fair will begin September 26, instead of September 19. Secretary J. C. Caldwell announced the change in dates yesterday is due to a shift in schedule of free acts and entertainment booked for the local fair.

Mr. Caldwell also states that weather within the past ten days has indicated that the farm exhibits will be better a week later. During the past week the management of the local fair has received many catalogs from other Virginia fairs and finds that the Appomattox pays more money on farm exhibits than the average county fair. The state fair is the only known exception and that benefits from a $5000 state appropriation with which to pay premiums.

Fair catalogs will be mailed and can also be obtained from local merchants. R. B. Hudgins, county agent, will assist farmers in preparing their exhibits.

The public wedding scheduled for the fair will be held on Thursday night, September 27, or in event of rain the following night. There will be no extra admission charge this night. Couples desiring to be the fair "bride and groom" may get in touch with Mr. Caldwell immediately. Names of the couple selected from the applicants will be kept secret until the fair.

Splendid free attractions, unusually good exhibits, a high class midway, and a popular band will be among the features of the fair this year. The fair catalog, listing exhibit awards, etc, has come from Times-Virginian presses this week and is ready for distribution.

Plan Marker At Scene Of Lee's Address

U. D. C. Seeks to Raise Funds For Bronze Marker at Famous Tree

Plans for a new historical marker at Appomattox are being rapidly developed, under the sponsorship of the Robert Edward Lee Chapter of U. D. C.

A handsome bronze marker, costing $200, is being sought to be placed at the scene of Lee's Farewell Address, under the famous tree just beyond the Appomattox River. The marker will contain appropriate wording and also have inscribed on it the actual wording of the farewell address.

Funds to purchase this marker are now being solicited by the Robert Edward Lee chapter and those wishing to make contributions may give same to any member of the chapter, or to Mrs. W. P. Gills, treasurer, or the Times-Virginian offers to forward to the chapter any funds its distant readers care to send.

The names of all contributors will be published in the Times-Virginian. The first to give towards the marker were:

Mrs. L. B. Richardson	$1.00
Mrs. W. J. Murden	$1.00
Mrs. A. B. Abbitt	$1.00

State Plans To Help Schools Run 8 Months

Dovell Advocates Putting Schools at Head of List of Beneficiaries

Agitation started some weeks ago concerning the plight of the public school system in Virginia is meeting with some results from the special session of the state legislature. An effort is being made to make education the prime state function rather than road-building, and under the leadership of school-men as delegate Abram Dovell, it is hoped that a full eight-month term can be guaranteed to all elementary schools.

Under the recent cut of thirty per cent in state school appropriations, many counties would have had to abbreviate their term. Buckingham county could run only five months. Appomattox planned for seven and one-third months. Only a very few of the counties would have been able to finance a full eight-month term. School boards and the general public arose to the situation and began to set upon their representatives to ake action at the special session. They held schools to be more important than beer or repeal. The administration got its beer and will get its repeal. Now the public wants means of educating its youth.

The present plan is for the state to change the thirty per cent to a fifteen per cent cut, and perhaps go so far as to guarantee eight months in such counties as cannot provide for it otherwise.

Most counties have reduced their school budgets to the leanest figure in recent years. Salaries of teachers have been sharply cut several times. The salary situation has been so acute that few counties can afford to employ other than local, single teachers, figuring that paying a board bill is impossible under the present scale. Extra-classroom activities have been eliminated and supervisors done away with in this year's plans. The consolidation movement has been carried through to save expense and it is probable that the budgets have reached rock bottom. Therefore, the counties felt that the time had come to cast their problem upon the state legislature.

McDearmon Takes Office As Mayor

C. S. McDearmon will become mayor of Appomattox on September first, tomorrow. He will succeed Judge W. L. Brown, who did not run for re-election after having held the post for two terms. There will be no change in the membership of the town council, all having been unopposed in the recent town elections.

Revivals Close

A successful revival closed Sunday night at the Liberty Baptist church, the Rev. R. E. Booker, of Brookneal having brought the messages. Baptisings will be held Sunday morning. The services were largely attended by the people of the community.

A revival at Liberty Chapel Baptist church closed last Friday night. Twenty-one were baptised, with a total of twenty-four added to the church membership.

Mrs. Smith Hurt

Mrs. E. LeRoy Smith was painfully injured in Lynchburg last Thursday afternoon when struck by an automobile truck. She has been in a Lynchburg hospital since the accident with a severely lacerated leg. According to our reports, she slipped and fell on stepping to the sidewalk from the street, in the 1000 block of Main Street, and a truck backed upon her, passing over her leg.

Fractured Skull

Roy Stevens, 9, colored, was badly wounded last Saturday at about one o'clock, when he was struck by a truck, driven by Burnette Smith on the Oakville road near Appomattox. He was carried to a Lynchburg hospital, with a fractured skull. Latest reports indicate that he will recover.

Lawn Party

The Robert Edward Lee chapter, U. D. C., will hold a lawn party Saturday, September 2, at the Vera school, beginning at 6 P. M. Everybody invited.

Cutting Tobacco

Tobacco farmers in this county are well advanced in cutting this year's darkleaf crop. Contrary to original belief, the wind and rain of last week did not do great damage. It is conservatively estimated that a ten per cent loss will cowee all damage done, instead of the heavy losses at first predicted. The crop will be ready for market slightly earlier than last year.

Dr. Herman E. Jones

Funeral services for the late Dr. Herman E. Jones, who lived for many years in Appomattox, were held in Lynchburg, August 20. He was born in this county September 20, 1860. He graduated in medicine from the University of Virginia in 1886 and studied later in New York. He moved to Roanoke in 1888 and became one of the leaders in his profession in that city. He was specialist in treating germ diseases. He was a direct descendent of Lord Delaware and was the son of the late J. Chapman Jones, of Appomattox county. He is survived by his wife, the former Miss Eva Yates; a sister-in-law, Mrs. Mary E. Coffman; two sister, Miss Anna Jones and Miss Nina Jones, and a number of nephews and neices.

Mock Trial at High School Friday Night

Local Churches Back Temperance Program with Local Cast

With a cast of twenty-three local citizens, a "murder trial" in the interest of temperance, will be presented at the high school auditorium here tomorrow, Friday night, at 8:00 p. m.

The trial is entitled, "Who Killed Earl Wright?" A model court room will be set, with Rev. R. E. Redding as judge. Lewis McDearmon will be the defendant, alleged to have killed a friend over a six of a pint of alcohol. Rev. G. D. Coffey will portray the bootlegger. Duval Conner will enact the sheriff and Rev E. I. Lewis will be his deputy. Miss Avis Brown will be court reporter; Mrs. W. L. Ould the star witness; Rev. W. M. Thompson, the coroner; Mrs. S. S. Coffman, the defendant's mother, and Miss Louise Gills, the widow of the deceased. The jury will consist of: J. A. Burke, C. S. McDearmon, Calvin Robinson, Don Moses, L. Crawley, R. C. Wagner, T. A. Walton, Rev. Omar Burnette, R. S. Wheeler, A. B. Harwood, R. L. Burke and J. E. Dinwiddie.

H. H. Johnson and Emmett W. Taylor will be the opposing attorneys. Admission will be free. The program is being sponsored by the local churches and the general public is urged to attend.
